Bachelor of Science in Deaf Education, Middle School Math, and High School Math from Barton College

Masters in Instructional Technology for Appalachian State University

I taught for 10 years and then came home with my children to homeschool them. I currently teach online for North Carolina Virtual Public Schools.

Sign Language

We will be learning the beautiful language of sign language and also learning a little bit about the deaf culture. We will play games while learning more about sign language and also be able to learn how to communicate with each other. Have your child teach you the signs each week so that they can also practice. The alphabet is really big to learn because a lot of signs are based off of the alphabet.
